9:30 – 11:00Students meet entrepreneurs

The best way to learn is to meet and to hear stories from experienced businessmen. Young people have the opportunity to meet Dean Celaj and Gerion Treska, both successful entrepreneurs. They will both share knowledge and experience in the field of entrepreneurship because we know that success stories can be an inspiration to young people.

Since graduating from our BSc Information Management for Business programme in 2019, Dean Celaj's startup, akademi.al, has grown from strength to strength and now has over one million global users. The e-learning platform offers free education to Albanian speaking children and has secured high-profile partners such as UNICEF and the British Embassy.

Gerion Treska is passionate about entrepreneurship, a startups enthusiast, supporter and mentor, he has been involved in contributing for the development of the Albanian startup ecosystem since 2012. His prior professional experiences include a combination of entrepreneurship, academia and NGOs supporting implementation of projects financed by different international development organizations/donors, and as advisor for private sector companies on business development and marketing.
